

Ceco Building Systems Executive Vice President and Southern Region General Manager Roger Burlingame has been promoted to President of Ceco Building Systems.

Robertson-Ceco Corporation President and CEO Keith Fischer said in announcing the promotion, "In his new role, Roger will be leading a reorganization of Ceco into a center-led service team that leverages their vital Builder relationships with the vast service and product offerings of NCI Building Systems." "I am confident," Fischer added, "that with Roger's recognized leadership skills and the support of our NCI leadership team, he will lead Ceco through these challenging times and be well positioned with a world class service organization to take advantage of the future economic upturn."

For the past seven years Burlingame has served as general manager of Ceco's Southern Region, headquartered in Columbus, Mississippi. Prior to assuming that position he was in a corporate role at Robertson Ceco Corporation, serving as Vice President of Information Systems.

Before joining Robertson-Ceco he was employed by Mallinckrodt, a health care products manufacturer, and H.H. Robertson, a building materials manufacturer, in St. Louis. He was also associated with the Maybelline Cosmetics Division of Schering-Plough Incorporated in Memphis.

A Mississippi native, Burlingame has a Bachelor of Science degree in Computer Science from the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg and a Master of Business Administration degree from Webster University in St. Louis.

Since moving to Columbus, he has been an active participant in the effort to improve the image and quality of education in Columbus and Lowndes County. Since 2003 he has served on the Columbus Municipal School District's Superintendent's Advisory Board. During 2004-2006 he was chairman of the local chamber of commerce and industrial development organization's Education Committee. He is currently serving as facilitator for the Columbus/Lowndes County Education Task Force. In addition he serves on the Board of Directors for the local economic development authority.

He serves on the board of directors for the local United Way, is a member of the Air Force Education Training Wing's Civic Leaders Group as well as the Columbus Air Force Bases' Community Council. Roger and wife Donna are active in the First Presbyterian Church in Columbus. They are the parents of two adult children.